LIMELIGHT IS ON WAINWRIGHT OILFIELD

PLANS SHOW OVER $4,000,000 TO BE EXPENDED IN FIELD THIS YEAR

With the sinking of deep test wells in Wainwright oil field this season, it is confidently expected that a sum of over four million dollars will be spent in the district, and that the results will prove even greater than obtained in the Turner Valley field.

There are indications that about thirty wells are to be drilled during the summer, and of these, a large number will be adjacent to proven acreage. The value of the acreage is shown by the fact that as soon as any becomes available it is snapped at continually values, so that now it is almost impossible to obtain rights near the producing areas.

Great interest is being evinced throughout the States in this field, and four large Seattle firms have entered the field during the past month, all of whom are making the necessary arrangements for the drilling of wells on their holdings.

During the past week the Omato Oils Limited, a new company with very strong financial backing have taken over 25,000 acres of leases from the Western Consolidated, and are preparing to drill a number of holes starting with the completion of the present Western Consolidated well to production.

Tests during this past week of the production from the Sasko-Wainwright No. 1 have proved that the crude there is of a higher gravity than any previously found, and in addition has only .02 content of water which is negligible. At the Associated Refineries plant, which is working continuous to supply distillate for local demand, the second still is in course of erection, and it is proposed to put this to work as soon as completed.

Another new company in the field is the Trafalgar Oil Co. which proposes an expenditure of around a quarter of a million dollars for the drilling of at least three wells there. Their first hole is to be spudded in near the Wainwright holdings.

At the Wainwright No. 4 site, Blair Stevens are drilling continuously and the hole is now down over 500 feet. Work is going along, too, on this company's No. 1 well.

West of town on the Bearpaw farm, Hargal Oils are getting their machinery and stuff placed. This is being brought from the old B.P. No. 4 by Contractor Bibby, and it should not be long before drilling is under way.

The Fabyan Petroleum No. 2 well is being rushed to completion so as to release the rig for further development, and Manager Williams is seeing to it that nothing is left undone to arrive at production at the earliest moment.

Taken altogether it looks like a very busy year for the Wainwright oilfield, and the final results are in little doubt, judging from the past, with production from practically every well in the field.

GARNET INFERIOR TO MARQUIS WHEAT

TEST MADE AT LAKE OF WOODS MILLING COMPANY FAVORS THE MARQUIS

Winnipeg—Of color, volume of loaf and gluten content, Garnet wheat is inferior to Marquis though the two varieties show no appreciable differences in absorption and bread yield, according to the result of a test completed at the Keweenaw mill of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company.

"If a high quality of flour is to be a first consideration," states the report of the company's investigators, "we cannot recommend Garnet for our mills. The result of this test further confirms our previous conclusion."

To stage the experiment, which gave results in accord with previous tests, a mix of 2,000 bushels of Garnet wheat was milled in comparison with Marquis on a commercial basis. "An excellent sample" of Garnet was used in the test, weighing 65½ pounds per bushel and averaging 13.5 per cent. protein; the Marquis sample weighed 62½ pounds per bushel and averaged 13.2 per cent. protein.

Regarding Reward wheat, the company's test states that the variety is consistently from one to two per cent. higher in protein than Marquis and equal to Marquis in all the best baking points. Hope was expressed to the report that agronomic success in producing Reward might in the near future enable it to replace all other varieties.

MOTHER'S DAY MOTHERHOOD

And do you think your baby fair?
So do the mothers everywhere,
And do you feel it when she cries,
And sing those gentle lullabies,
And fashion frocks for her to wear?
So do the mothers everywhere,
Do you see dreams above her there?
So do the mothers everywhere,
Do you slip in at night to see
If she's as snug as she should be,
And feel her brow and smooth her hair?
So do the mothers everywhere.

Oh, yes you in your love and care
Are all the mothers everywhere,
These lovely dreams, these hurts you dread,
These hours of watchfulness by the bed
And all the burdens that you bear,
Belong to mother everywhere.
Edgar A. Guest.

ALBERTA COAL OFFICE NOT CLOSED THIS YEAR
EDMONTON—As part of the campaign to popularize Alberta coal in the Ontario market, it is proposed to continue a publicity and information office in Toronto and Premier Brownlee is authority for the statement that the government will probably ask the coal operators to apply the money maintained by the government to the maintenance of such an office.

A grant of $5,000 to assist in the work of advertising Alberta mine coal in the east was authorized by the legislature and is administered by the operators, being paid over to them from month to month. Nearly the whole amount will be required for keeping up the Toronto office which is regarded as essential to a successful selling campaign in Ontario and the government will earmark its contribution to be used in the work.

A Remembrance For Mother

ALL the money in the world couldn't repay Mother for the sacrifices she made for you. Still, there is a material way to make her happy and show your appreciation. Give her all the love you are capable of and honor her or her memory on Sunday next.

ELKS DANCE WAS A HUGE SUCCESS

AFFAIR FOR "KIDDIES DAY" SAW HUGE CROWD ALL OUT FOR GOOD TIME

The benefit dance sponsored by the Wainwright Lodge No. 22 B.P.O.E. held in the local theatre May 1st proved to be the most successful of any dance held by the "Hello Bills" and the kiddies of the district are assured of their annual treat.

To the strains of the peppiest music heard in Wainwright in many a day the crowd of nearly 400 enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The music was supplied by Alec Aamann's orchestra, assisted by the Spornita Brothers of Edmonton. The orchestra was not a bit stingy with their music either and during the evening four quadrilles were put on and the older folks present were given a chance to "do their stuff."

A novel feature of the affair was provided by one of the local members when he bought the drinks (grape cider) for the house. The door prize of a $50.00 gold piece was won by Mr. Gus Wittmann the drawing for which was done by drawing a number from the box by Miss Lula Prosser (the units being added, amounted to 12).

Twelve draws were then made from the box, the twelfth number being 110. A set of dishes donated by Bro. F. S. Gordon was raffled during the evening, this being won by Mrs. Morrison, with ticket No. 61 the drawing being conducted the same as for the door prize.

Chairman MacDonald of the eats committee is to be congratulated on the splendid lunch furnished at midnight to which all did ample justice. Another pleasing feature was the small individual Ice Cream Nappies supplied by the refreshment committee the stall being presided over by Pro F. S. Gordon.

Bro. Tony Girard of the decoration committee had the hall very tastefully decorated with streamers and balloons a purple and white.

Immediately after lunch floor chairman Bro. Geo. Pettie passed out about $40.00 worth of novelties and a very noisy enjoyable hour was on.

The Elks of Wainwright and district wish to thank all (especially the ladies) who assisted with the sandwiches) who in any way helped to make the Kiddies Day Dance the success it proved and it is hoped that the parents of the district will see that the children will be given an opportunity to be in attendance on the Elks' Kiddies Day.

The new office at Fabyan for the Fabyan Petroleum Ltd has now been completed by Mr. P. D. Laird.

Mr. F. Grayston, having rented his house on Second Avenue, has now moved his family to Viking where Fred is in business.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Mary Reid is confined to the hospital through sickness and wish her better.

Bill Seguin is now re-erecting the big derrick on the Leo O'Reilly farm which blew over in the winter storms. We learn that work is to start on the drilling rig away.

ELKS WILL HOLD MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE

A special business meeting of Lodge No. 22, B.P.O.E., will be held in the Oddfellows' hall on Tuesday next, May 14th, at 8 p.m. At the close of the regular meeting a special Mother's Day service will be observed, at which all members are requested to be present.

COMPLETE VILLAGE BUILT FOR FILM

BIGGEST "SET" EVER YET CONSTRUCTED FOR BRITISH FILM

For the war scenes of "Roses of Picardy," a Gaumont British film based on stories by R. H. Mottram, the director, Maurice Elvey, built a complete replica of the village of Hondschoote, at Nieuport. The village covers an area of 640,000 square feet and was the largest and probably the most cleverly planned "set" yet erected for a British film. Seven roads debouched on a quiet market place surrounded by a church, several typical shops and houses. It was constructed especially to obtain the greatest number of vistas or long shots, of which there were at least fourteen, while the number of camera angles ran into hundreds.

The village was filmed in three places, 1914, 1918 and 1926. It may be deemed top-heavy, but the 1926 phase of the village was built and filmed first in order that the 1914 period could be destroyed last.

This is all shown in the big picture here on Thurs., Friday and Saturday.

After the post-war and pre-war period had been filmed, an army of workmen put shell-holes in houses and roads, knocked out of chimneys, corners off the church belfry, smashed the bells and devastated the place so thoroughly that nothing but general configuration remained as identification.

The scene was a memorable one. Hondschoote was being evacuated under shell fire. Men, women and children, and carts swaying under loads of household furniture and chattels, formed a confused mass hurrying towards the roads that led to safety.

While a preening youngling officer stood in the midst and deftly sorted them out, as it were, from the marching columns of British troops retreating before the big Boche push of 1918. Loud explosions occurred. Horses shied and film "supers" put every ounce of zest into getting away from the "falling shells," which were in fact land mines being exploded to the producers' orders. A whirl of a plane and the next moment it was sweeping six feet above the houses and almost simultaneously the roadway belched fire, thunder, and smoke, and the whole front of a house toppled into the hole left by the explosion, which, for the moment at any rate, was as near real war as any film producer is likely to create.

Town tinspector, Earl Cork has been busy this week with the electric clock in the memorial tower. The coils have returned from England and Earl has the faithful old timepiece ticking off the "sands of time" once more.

Messrs R. Manley and T. Cochrane of Wetaskiwin, were in town at the week end making a round of the oil wells of the district. They are interested in the Sask. Wainwright company.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Charlier were trip over to the city for a few days last week.

MOTHER'S DAY

(By Clara McCreery)

She watched us go off in the mornings
When school days had just begun,
And waited for us in the doorway
After the day was done.
Years passed, and our school days were over—
She thought of us early and late,
But after a wider world beckoned
She had so much longer to wait.
Through joy, disappointment and sorrow,
With faith like a beacon a-bloom,
She watched, for visits and letters—
Always and always the same,
With love that goes constantly with us,
Though wearisome ways we may roam,
She prayerfully hopes we are happy
And waits for us still to come home.

TOWN SOLDIER BOYS ANNUAL INSPECTION

LOCAL CADET CORPS COMPLIMENTED BY MAJOR MILLER ON GOOD WORK

On Wednesday afternoon last, some forty members of the Wainwright public school cadet corps turned out on the school grounds for their annual inspection; the "O.C." for the occasion being Major R. Miller, of Calgary, district cadet officer.

The "men" under their commanders (Lieut. K. Snyder, Sergt. J. Davidson and Corps. Coffield and Wittmann) were given a very thorough inspection in all branches of their training, and at the close Major Miller complimented the corps on winter, the second prize trophy in the Strathcona "B" rifle competition with a score of 88.8 per cent. Sergt. J. Davidson received a suitably engraved medal for having proved himself the best shot in Alberta rural cadet corps with a score of 96 per cent at the targets as well as a badge which signifies that this marksmanship is the best shot in the Wainwright corps.

In talking to the boys, the Major drew an alluring picture of the annual cadet camp to be held this summer at Gull Lake. This camp which is purely recreational accommodations some 600 boys and is fully equipped for all emergencies; with doctors, nurses, field hospital, etc. The boys are all under first-class supervision, and the cost to the boys is absolutely free; transportation to and from the camp being also provided for them. Wainwright has secured allotment of fifteen for this camp although many more have signified their desire to attend.

In his closing remarks, the inspecting officer complimented the corps upon its much increased efficiency this year, as well as their instructor Principal D. S. Kyle.

Mr. T. Torgerson, of Edmonton, agent a few days in town last week looking after his many interests in this district.

Mrs. W. Crowe and her daughter are now returned from the coast where they have been for several weeks.

Mrs. Roseberry, arrived from Edmonton last week to visit her sister Mrs. Archie Balmer at Gilt Edge.

Harry Myers, who has been attending university at Edmonton has now returned home for the summer holidays.

Mah Kee, the proprietor of the Hero cafe, who has been visiting his family away in China has now returned home.

CAR SALES STILL KEEP UP IN TOWN DISTRICT
A run around among the boys at the garages this week was no abatement in our sales. The modern travel trend is still on the rise and the automobile is now rated as an absolute necessity for either business man or farmer. The sales of the past week in town covered: Joe Carroll, sedan; Frank Hornstead, Carl Brunke, sedan and Ford-Lins coach; these being delivered at Pontiac sedan to both H. Montgomery and S. D. Bibby. The Chevrolet showroom sales for the week were E. O. Garneau, sedan; S. Plaxton, sedan; W. Kehos, coach; W. Steel, coupe; and A. Hughes, coupe. All of which goes to prove that prosperity is in the district, and that the dealers are fully alive to their opportunities.

The Crime Code

I longed to find Ilona and demand the truth from her. What could she know? Could she tell me something to give a clue to Joan's sudden disappearance? Or was it due to the fierce jealousy of the woman I had unconsciously wedded?

Very probably it was due to the latter! If so then my efforts to learn the truth and to rescue Joan must be unavailing.

Joan's mother was naturally in tears. My girl would never of her own free will remain away all night! she cried. 'An accident may have happened John. He said to her husband. Enquiry must be made at all the hospitals!'

The maid was called and described the dress coat and hat which Joan had put on before going out.

'She had two one-pound Treasury notes in her bag as well as some silver ma'am the girl said. Miss Joan always carries them in her little purse in case of emergency.'

'Did she seem surprised when you gave her the letter?' asked Mr. Gell as suming his habitual manner of cross-examination.

'Well just a trifle I think sir. What causes you to say a trifle Explain it.'

'Well explained the neatly dressed maid rather confusedly at her master's hard legal glance when she opened and read the letter she exclaimed: 'Oh how strange—how very interesting! I must go at once Mr. Hipwell is waiting for me.'

'She did not say where?'
'No sir. She bustled me about to get out her dress and shoes and while she put on her hat I went out to call a taxi.'

'You were at the door when she went out?'
'Yes sir. I heard her tell the man to drive to Wardour Street but I could not catch the number.'

'She might have gone to the Cosmo Club. That is in Wardour Street. We are both members I remarked.'

'Then the rendezvous might have been at the club remarked Mr. Gell who turning to the maid asked: 'What as far as you can tell was the exact time she left the house?'

'About eight o'clock sir.'

'Why did she not come to me and tell me she was going out?' asked her mother. 'Always when she goes out late she tells me. Girls today are also not like they were when I was a girl. John They run such risks and yet they are so self-reliant that one can't help liking the modern girl after all.'

'But where is our girl?' asked Mr. Gell bewildered.

The phone rang from his chambers in the Temple. He was due to appear at the London Sessions to prosecute. In the case of stolen motor cars but in a few brief sentences he told his clerk that he was indisposed he regretted and asked his junior associate to carry on the case in his absence.

'Till noon we remained at Queen's Gate I rang up Bruce but he had heard nothing. Half a dozen of Joan's friends were rung up by her mother but nobody had seen or heard of her.

'From the moment the taxi had left the curb outside she had disappeared into space.'

'We must advertise for the taxi driver' I suggested. 'He may tell us where he left her.'

'Yes but the notice cannot appear until tomorrow morning replied her father excitedly. Mr. Gell usually such a calm composed man whom no circumstance however untoward could ruffle was now beside himself at Joan's disappearance.'

'Who could possibly have imitated your handwriting?' he asked blankly.

'We both went to her empty bedroom and searched her wastepaper basket for evidence of the plot. But she had apparently taken the note with her. There had been no fire in the room therefore she could not have burned it as she might have done in winter.

'The next morning the car took us to Scotland Yard where without delay we were ushered into the bare official room of the assistant commissioner of Metropolitan Police Mr. Cunningham Lee.

'The tall thin-faced official rose to greet the famous K.C., and then re-seating himself listened to the story which the bereaved father related.'

'This is Mr. Lionel Hipwell of the Foreign Office he said indicating me. The letter my daughter received purported to come from him but he never sent a message either verbal or written.'

'Then your daughter was deceived a way last night Mr. Gell en?'
'No doubt or—perhaps an accident has occurred to her and she may be in one of the hospitals.'

'The receipt of the note rather points to her being deceived does it not?' said the assistant commissioner very seriously as he touched an electric button.

'Send Mr. Nicholas to me he's said to the clerk who answered his summons. And—send for Mr. Hayes also.'

In a few moments the two officers of the Criminal Investigation Department entered. To them the eminent lawyer who was so well known gave a detailed description of Joan together with the clothing she had worn and described the curious circumstances under which she had left home in a taxi for Wardour Street about 8 o'clock.

Both detectives made some scribbled notes when Hayes a round faced middle aged man who had to his credit the arrest of the bungalow murderer Collins, handed only a couple of months before asked:

'Excuse me Mr. Gell but do you think the motive might be vengeance because you have successfully prosecuted one or other of the recent gangs? You remember the Pittard crowd—that cat burglars whom you prosecuted after they were sentenced by the Recorder they vowed vengeance against you!'

John Gell laughed in his usual hearty manner.

'My dear Mr. Hayes every advocate who prosecutes for the Treasury had hundreds of threats and anonymous letters of abuse and warning! I'm not alone. I received two yesterday morning.'

'That is so Mr. Gell' admitted the Assistant Commissioner but Mr. Hayes is perfectly within his right to suggest a motive.'

'Of course. Of course said the stout lawyer. But I leave the matter entirely in your hands to do your best to restore my daughter to me.'

'Every effort shall be made. I assure you said Mr. Cunningham Lee. We will send to all the hospitals and ambulance stations and we will get hold of the taxi-man without delay! Then after a pause, the high official of Scotland Yard turned to me in a strange half-suspicious manner asked:

'You are quite certain that you sent no note to Miss Gell last night?'

'I certainly did not I replied. But I have reason to believe that Miss Gell has fallen victim to some deeply laid and desperate plot. Some clever forger has been at work who sent her a message of great urgency for I had been with her only an hour before she received the mysterious message which caused her to change hurriedly and rush to Wardour Street.'

'Yes remarked the Assistant Commissioner I agree entirely. The young lady I fear had fallen victim to some plot the motive of which is at present entirely obscure.'

CHAPTER XIII

What could we do save to leave the matter in the hands of the police? In a couple of hours every police constable in Greater London would hear the description read over before going on duty while search would be made of every hospital and ambulance post.

We afterwards drove along to the offices of The Times and Morning Post in which we placed advertisements begging the taxi driver who took a young lady from Queen's Gate at eight o'clock on the evening in question to communicate at once with the nearest police station.

'There was no more to be done save to wait in patience.'

'How that day passed or what I did I cannot tell. My wife Ilona might be in London as she said she intended. I read the letter I had found in Rome in which she told me that if she dared she would call on me if she dared? What could that mean?'

'She asked me to write to her at her club in London. But what club? In neither of her letters had she given me any address save the vague one "Lausanne".'

I knew the trilingual city on the hill above the blue Lake of Geneva. But it was a large place in which to search for anyone. Yet if she were a traveller, as it seemed she would not doubt be at one of the fifty or more hotels. And if she had assumed my name I might be able to discover her in the visitor's list.

My first impulse was to go to Lausanne but I remembered that she had stated her intention of coming to me in London. Hence I waited. Four days went by, but we could gather nothing concerning Joan. She had completely disappeared, and like myself her parents were beside themselves with grief.

In my excited state of mind I called on Teddy Day and told him of Joan's disappearance, though I withheld from him the secret of Ilona's existence. I told him of my romantic mission from the Little Countess to Roddy Owen though I gave him no inkling of who the charming lady really was.

'She's an adventuresome no doubt old boy' he declared as he stretched his long legs out upon the hearth rug and smoked his cigarette. 'If she is received at the Embassy in Rome and elsewhere, she ought to be exposed. You ought not to allow her and her chaperon to go further.'

I discussed the situation from every angle. It was difficult to write to Sir Richard Kingscliff. I could only wait until my duties took me again into Italy. Meanwhile I knew that something very serious must have happened to Joan, and that I myself remained in some mysterious but deadly peril.

I was I think no coward; yet I had enemies on every hand. Since that never-to-be-forgotten night in Bloomsbury, when because I tried to rescue a defenseless woman from the hands of a brute, I brought upon myself disaster I seem to have been hounded out of life.

When I reflected I saw visions of the face of Lady Hadden distorted by hate, when she had made that brutal proposal to put out my eyes. And yet I was perfectly unharmed, and moreover I was her friend.

Was it because of my friendship that she had spared me? Did she continue by some subtle means to evade doing what she and that man friend of hers had suggested? Had she relented and allowed me to go with my eyesight unimpaired? Still the effect on me of that unknown drug had remained blotting out my consciousness for two whole years. Nevertheless I had led another life, energetic, manly, tireless, as I sped hither and to between Downing Street and the capital of Europe. I had once or twice contemplated consulting a doctor about it. But like most young men I had a silly terror of the medical profession refusing medical aid unless perhaps I had a touch of fever that sent me to bed.

Cecily was sympathetic and full of suggestions. Meanwhile Mr. Gell with all his influence in police circles was daily active in searching for Joan.

Happily we had managed to keep the affair out of the papers save for the advertisement addressed to the taxi driver. But that told the public nothing.

On the fourth day after his disappearance, a taxi driver named Cowley living at Streatham Common called at the Brixton police station and made a statement.

He had been passing along Queen's Gate when a young lady had come out of a house and ordered him to drive to Wardour Street. At the door of the Cosmo Club a fair-haired young man in evening dress was waiting to meet her. They had had a short and very excited discussion, whereupon the young man had entered the taxi and told the man to drive to the Florida club. There he set them down. And he knew nothing more.

This story was told to me by Mr. Gell who phoned me to come over to Queen's Gate at once. Together we went to Horton Street, where we saw the commissioner on duty who apparently had no recollection of the incident. In the book was Joan's signature as a member.

In the broad light of day the popular night haunt of society looked hurriedly tawdry and bizarre. Princes and nobles danced upon the glass floor drank their wines and ate rich foods at night beneath the glamour of shaded lights while listening to the soft seductive music of the highest paid orchestra in London. Yet the club looked strange and unreal as we entered and noticed that several foreign half-zip-aproned waiters were arranging choice flowers upon the tables for the coming guests.

We failed to discover anything further than Joan's signature as she had entered. The Florida was the most exclusive. There was no sign of her membership, as there is in so many London dance clubs—no joining by immediate payment of a subscription. Each member was an approved person passed by the committee at its monthly meeting, just as at any other West End club. There were, in fact men and women on the waiting list; hence it was a club almost as exclusive as the Carlton, White's, the Travellers or the Devonshire.

We drew blank—a disappointing blank. We could discover nothing further than her rather faintly written signature—'Joan Gell'—in the big membership book, held by the old white moustached military commissioner. Underneath her signature was that of a world-famous explorer and above it was the scribble of a rather reckless young peer.

I wondered whether the explorer had known or had even seen her. He was a member of the Junior United Service Club so I called on him.

Alert erect and full of genuine bonhomie the elderly traveller told me that he knew Joan by sight that he had but a faint recollection of seeing her that winter.

'I have an idea I saw her dancing with a young fair-haired man' he told me as we sat together in the club. 'He struck me as a young empty-headed fool, but he was a very good dancer. They chartered well. That's all I know. I left the Florida about half past one and went to the Travellers with Janning Chase the stockbroker for a final drink.'

That was all we could gather. A dozen times I consulted with Teddy but our conversation carried us no further.

Who was wondered was her fair enemy who pretended blindness? (To be Continued)

MANY AMERICANS

SEEK TO VISIT
FAR NORTH PORT

WINNIPEG—Construction of a rail line through the northern wilderness is not the most serious problem that confronts H. A. Dixon, chief engineer in charge of the Canadian National Railways new line to Hudson Bay. The real problem is what to do about the host of people, many of them Americans, who seek to visit Fort Churchill, the port on Hudson Bay at the terminus of the new line.

"Fort Churchill has no Chamber of Commerce or Tourist Bureau to broad cast its attractions but if there is any spot on the continent more American citizens desire to visit a once, I do not know of it," said Mr Dixon who has just returned from a trip of inspection of the Hudson Bay Line.

"We are absolutely swamped with applications from people who want to reach Churchill many of them from United States points. There are thousands of them and there is accommodation for none.

"In the first place, we can't carry them. Steel has just been laid into Fort Churchill but for the last hundred miles of the route we have only a skeleton track over which only work trains can operate, and they with difficulty.

"In the second place there is no place to put them. At Fort Churchill there are only four buildings. One is the wireless station and the other three are banks. There is no room in any of them except for those who have to be there for business reasons.

NURSES know, and doctors have declared there's nothing quite like Aspirin to relieve all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is Aspirin the name Bayer should be on the package, and on every tablet. "There are no places for travelers to eat or sleep along the line except in the workmen's quarters. There are all ed and so rationing is with a difficult problem there is no food to spare for visitors. Churchill is no tourist center—not yet."

HOW TO PREPARE CAR
FOR SUMMER DRIVING

With spring days and warm weather just around the corner motorists can insure themselves of improved operating performance by following a few simple steps in preparing their cars for summer driving.

Seasonal changes in weather conditions should be met by a careful check of all mechanical parts of a motor car. Summer motoring usually means faster and longer driving with the result that caution should be exercised to see that the car is ready for these new conditions.

Following are important reminders for the motorist in preparing for the spring and summer season:

Drain radiator. Flush and refill with clean water.

Inspect radiator hose connections and water pump to insure proper circulation of water in cooling system.

See that fan belt is tight and in good condition.

Reduce generator charging if it has been advanced for winter driving.

Pack differential and transmission with good recommended grade of summer grease.

Lubricate springs and fill all grease cups. Oil working parts where necessary.

Refill crankcase with summer grade of recommended oil.

Make necessary adjustments of brakes, replacing bands if necessary.

Check ignition system for faulty wires poor connections and fouled terminals.

Inspect distributor points and see that they are in good condition and properly set.

Examine spark plugs. Replace old ones, and make sure all plugs are clean and properly spaced.

Inspect gasoline lines and screens. Make necessary adjustments for summer driving.

See that tires are inflated at right pressure. Replace tires that will give trouble, under fast driving.

Many motorists will find increased power, comfort acceleration and operating economy can be realized if valves are ground and carbon removed from the engine.

This work should be done at an authorized service station by skilled mechanics for it is of vital importance in obtaining the smooth performance that factory standards require when a car is new.

invisible difference

Many motor oils look alike, but there is a vast difference in the way they perform. Unfortunately this difference is difficult to detect.

The invisible difference which makes one motor oil better than another must be inherent in the crude from which it is made.

There you have the reason why Marvelube gives better engine lubrication than oils refined from ordinary crudes. Imperial Oil searched the world over for a better crude—and in South America they found it. From it they make Marvelube—a pure, carbon-free, full-bodied oil that resists the extreme heats and pressures of modern engine operation.

Aircraft operators prefer Marvelube because better lubrication means greater safety and longer intervals between overhauls. Motorists prefer Marvelube because it is the ideal oil for modern motors. It ensures greater power, greater flexibility and greater economy.

There is a grade of Marvelube refined to meet exactly the specifications of your car. Consult the Marvelube Chart at Imperial Oil service stations and dealers.

COMPLETION OF HIGHWAY ASSURED THIS YEAR BY BOTH GOVERNMENTS

Urged as a primary necessity by the Alberta Motor Association boards of trade and other bodies for years it seems that 1929 will see the completion of the Jasper Highway as a possible motor route between Edmonton and the popular mountain resort. Furthermore, it will mean that an important link has been completed in another all Canadian route to the Pacific coast.

Announcements last week by Hon O. L. McPherson minister of public works for Alberta and Hon Charles Stewart minister of interior at Ottawa showed that realization of the Jasper highway is assured this year.

The Alberta minister stated that this province was ready to undertake the completion of this highway if the Dominion authorities would agree to finish the eight miles on the park side. Providing the federal authorities would do their part the province would complete its gap of about the same length east of the park and south of Obed.

Alberta was also asking that authority be given by Ottawa to enable this province to make necessary improvements to the abandoned grade between Evansburg and the park entrance. This work would include renewing or replacing culverts widening the grade and other reconducing for motor purposes. This is now being taken up with Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C.N.R., and Hon C. A. Dunning minister of railways. It was stated by the provincial minister that by the end of the season there would be a passably good road of course but this would be ready for a gravelled surface in the near future.

The next day it was reported from Ottawa that Hon Mr Stewart had stated that the federal government would do its share in completing the park section of the road. He said work had been under way for three years and it would be finished in 1929.

At its conventions for several years past the Alberta Motor Association has passed resolutions pressing the governments to rush completion of the Jasper highway. The fact that the goal has at last been reached is a further demonstration of the good work being done by the Motor Association of this province.

In 5 MILLION HOMES TONIGHT

A host of babies will enjoy sound sleep tonight. And their parents will have marvelous rest. Castoria is the name of the medicine that is a natural remedy for all ailments of babies. It is a purely vegetable product. No opiates. No narcotics. Of any kind.

How you know why trained nurses give Castoria as often as an infant is ill, or even restless. And why doctors tell mothers it is the first and only remedy when baby has constipation, colic, diarrhea, or other upset. It is made for babies, and safe to give babies, and other things are not. Castoria is "old-fashioned" if you want it fifty years, but it's an old-fashioned mother, nowadays, who soothes along without it. Twenty-five million bottles bought last year! Think of the number of mothers who rely on Castoria! All these mothers can't be wrong! To keep a bottle in the house is a precaution you owe your little one.

Initiative is that quality which leads a man to do things which they should be done without being told. The men who exercise initiative are the builders of the world; all other people are merely tenants and janitors.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHER

There is one great journey in this life, and one only. It starts with the cradle and ends with the grave. The greatest word in God, the deepest word in Soul; the longest word in Eternity. The swiftest word in Time; the darkest word in Sin; the meanest word in Hypocrisy. The truest word is Love; the sweetest word is Love; and the dearest word is MOTHER.

How poor the man who has never felt the presence of a mother's kiss, and in the corridor of whose memory there lingers no memory or sound of a mother's voice.

Gladstone, in parliament on one occasion, gave a touching instance of a mother's devotion, referring to the death of Princess Alice, Her little boy stricken with diphtheria. Stretching out his arms he cried "Mama kiss me" Though strongly cautioned to keep away from her babe, she answered her boy's appeal and took him in her motherly arms; and they laid them to rest in the same grave.

To many a boy and girl thousands of miles from home, the name of mother has the value of religion pure and filed, enshrined in a living personality.

The late King Edward VII. said "She rocked my cradle, and while I rule, God grant she may hold my hand"

Truly our Mothers are deserving of the highest tribute.

Oil for the Empire
A London Times writer points out that the British Empire produces less than two per cent of the world's supply of oil. The position is indeed a lowly one and the Empire's reserve strength is diminished by its dependence upon other countries for such an important economic commodity, says the Financial Post.

Alberta is the most important oil field in the British Empire at the present time. In decades to come Western Canada may prove to have scores of Turner Valleys. The presently proven geological structure is very small in contrast to the wide area.

VOTERISTS HEAR OF ALBERTA'S BIG NEW HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Heeding the motorists' cry for better roads, the provincial government will award contracts this week covering 168 miles of highways in various parts of the province. This is the first installment of the program of road improvements this season.

A stretch of 47 miles from Winterburn to Seba beach west of Edmonton is on the program for this year. This will connect with the Stony Plain road now built, and be ready for graveling next year.

Standard earth grading will be done on 36 miles on the Stettler road from Lacombe east to Neve. A 12 mile stretch northwest of Gleichen will also be graded.

The travelling program includes 18 miles from Inverkeithing west of Strathmore, to a point six miles east of Strathmore and 30 miles of first course travelling between Lethbridge and New Dayton on the final section of the Sunning trail. Then there will be 25 miles of second course travelling from Cardston to Waterton. It is expected that there will be about fifteen further lots of road contracts on the program for the summer and autumn.

Members of the Alberta Motor Association are grateful over this extensive program of better highways. The organization has given special attention to this need and is doing its part in aiding in the proper marking of roads to meet the demands of the growing tourist traffic in this province.

The first shipment of ice cream which it is believed was ever made to South America from any place in Canada went forward recently from Vancouver, B.C., consigned to Georgetown, Guyana, by the RMS "Lady Drake" of the Canadian National Steamships. "In power, ease of driving, and flexibility, the new McLauchlin-Buick outperforms any car I have ever driven." (name on request)

THE owner quoted above has been driving automobiles for 15 years, and his enthusiastic comment merely typifies that of the thousands who have turned to McLauchlin-Buick after making their own careful tests.

Not only have motorists in all parts of the country accepted McLauchlin-Buick's invitation to get behind the wheel and get the facts about McLauchlin-Buick performance... but they have entered orders for more than twice as many McLauchlin-Buicks as any other car at or above its price.

Be sure to drive a McLauchlin-Buick! Try it in traffic on the straightaway—the steepest hill. The more thorough your tests, the more careful your comparison... you will find it up to McLauchlin-Buick's, and only theirs.

Health Service of the CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION READY FOR SCHOOL

It may appear as if this article had been given, by mistake a May date for publication instead of one in September. Just now, most people are busy thinking of the close of school, or of a vacation and summer vacations. It is, however, time for thought, particularly concerning the children who will be starting to attend school for the first time this autumn.

Whenever and wherever a group of children are examined upon entering school, quite a high percentage of them are found to require medical care. They are not ill, but they have what are generally called defects. These defects may be diseased teeth or tonsils (adenoids or some similar condition). Such defects do not make the child ill in the ordinary sense of the word. They are, however, a serious handicap to the child; they constitute an additional burden which drains the child's reserve. No parent would deliberately do anything to interfere with his child's physical or mental development, yet the parent who does not have his child's defects treated is not allowing the child a fair chance.

Now is the time to have the child who has not as yet attended school examined, and if he is found to have defects, to have them treated. By having this done, the child will have the summer in which to build up his health, so that he may start to school this fall properly prepared to secure the greatest benefit from his school attendance.

We have stated that defects do not cause the child to be ill. This does not mean that defects are not a serious menace; they are. The damage done by defects is not, as a rule seen until adult life. A large percentage of heart disease of kidney disease and other diseases of middle life are due to neglect of diseased teeth, tonsils and other such parts when they are in fact; that is living germs.

The early proper treatment of defects is our chief hope of decreasing those diseases which now take a heavy toll at middle age. Questions concerning Health addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

HOW MACARONI GOT ITS NAME

More than 700 years ago, so the legend goes, there stood in the town of Cortellari, Italy, a tall building that housed many questionable characters. In the attic of this building lived a man named Cicho—"Cicho, the mysterious" his neighbors called him, for he was rarely seen on the streets. His windows were never opened, and unlike the other tenants he had a servant who was frequently seen carrying grains, herbs and vegetables to his master.

Cicho's movements particularly aroused the curiosity of Jovanella, an inquisitive, bold, old woman, who in order to find out what her neighbor did, crept one day close to his window and discovered him bending over a parchment at times stirring something over a flame at crucibles. Over time with curiosity and perhaps because she was suspecting some powerful mixture to spread ruin, Jovanella kept close watch for several days—and one day was surprised to see Cicho eat the mixture he had prepared.

Returning to her home, Jovanella prepared the mixture herself as she had seen Cicho prepare it. The result was a new food more delicious than any she had ever eaten. It was sure to be a food, she thought fit for a king.

Through her husband, who was a helper to the king's cook, Jovanella was able to introduce her discovery to the king's table. The king was delighted with the new food, and called Jovanella before him. The crafty woman told him that the secret of its preparation had been revealed in a dream, and the king believing Jovanella to have been divinely inspired, called the new dish macaroni from the word Marcus meaning the divine dish.

The popularity of macaroni was instantaneous, and so, as the result of a woman's curiosity, this new dish was added to the menu of the world.

FLIES OR BABIES WHICH?

The above arresting title to a brief but very telling little pamphlet issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. gives a very real meaning to the "Clean Up" week which is being urged on all communities at this season.

Filth and garbage of all kinds accumulate during the winter months. With the coming of the warm days the house fly appears. It is born in filth, lives in filth and when not busy on putrescent matter, milk preserves or the baby's bottles, is feeding in filth.

It is estimated that the flies are responsible for more deaths than any single known disease. Babies are its particular prey since the infantile diseases are carried largely by the pest. Get rid of it by cleaning up all filth and garbage. Make a habit of burning all refuse. Give it no chance to breed. Screen doors and windows at the first hint of warm weather. Two flies at the beginning of the season will be responsible if allowed to live, for millions of other flies, they breed so rapidly. So clean up, burn up and screen doors and windows. It is to be flies or babies? The choice is yours.

For literature on the summer care of babies send to the Canadian Red Cross Society, 497 Civic Block, Edmonton, Alta.

MAN'S GOOD EVERYDAY PRAYER

The following is an old English prayer that dated back to the eighteenth century: Give me a good digestion, Lord and something to digest.

Give me a healthy body, Lord, with sense enough to keep it at its best. Give me a healthy mind, good Lord, to keep the good and pure in sight. Which, seeing sin, is not appalled but finds a way to set it right. Give me a mind that is not bound; that does not whisper white or sigh. Don't let me worry over much about the fussy thing called I. Give me some of humor, Lord; give me the grace to see a joke; To get some happiness out of life and pass it on to other folk."

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach something that will neutralize the acid by the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly, relieves quickly, and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take. Any druggist has the genuine, genuine product.

Over Two Hundred Trains Daily

The glass covered passenger train shed at Windsor Station, Montreal.

The largest in Canada and comparing very favorably with some of the largest in the United States, the Montreal Terminals of the Canadian Pacific Railway have 40 miles of double main track, six of single main track, 15 switching and delivery yards, over 300 private individual sidings and three interchange tracks with other railways, making a total of over 250 miles of track. An average of 125 passenger and 100 freight trains are handled daily, the number varying at different seasons. Nearly 5,000 freight and passenger cars are moved every day. Freight and yard engines are in service 24 hours of the day and frequently additional locomotives are required. Between 3200 and 3300 men are employed constantly.

There are two large passenger yards, Glen Yard at Westmount, and Place Viger, of which the former is the larger and more important. Since it takes care of all incoming and outgoing trains to and from the Windsor station and an average of 90 trains enter and leave the Windsor station daily, it is the largest and most important of the yards. Means that 60 outgoing trains at least, have to be scheduled daily, for cars made ready, inspected, watered, iced and cleaned in preparation for their journey.

Freight traffic is more difficult to handle than passenger. Of the 15 switching and delivery yards, Sortin, Outremont and Hochelaga are the largest. Incoming trains are taken in the receiving yards, outgoing in the classification yard and cars held for orders or repairs in the hold and repair yard.

An important feature of freight traffic is the prompt placing of all loaded cars onto the various private sidings, public main tracks and right shed tracks throughout the city so that the various consignees can take delivery of their shipments as soon as possible after arrival in the receiving yards. Prompt placing of empty cars for loading is another important feature, as is also prompt movement of cars loaded in the city or shipment elsewhere. During the navigation season an average of 100 cars loaded with package freight for export is always waiting to be unloaded. Further, during the grain movement season, there is always an average of 1,000 cars of grain on hand.

Heavy traffic means constant attention to insure maximum of safety. The main line tracks are laid with 100-lb. rail and rock-ballasted. Nearly 200,000 new ties and 2,800 gross tons of rail have been laid in the main line and yard tracks during 1927 without causing a minute's delay to traffic. There are four engine houses on the Terminals, each with six to eight engines and on the average 185 trains are dispatched every 24 hours for passenger and freight trains. There are on the terminals 226 buildings, 125 bridges and culverts and many hundreds of miles of track.

THE FAMILY NEXT DOOR

HEALTH

(By Aesculapian)

Estimates of the enormous losses incident to sickness and premature death in Canada have been given in former articles and examples showing illustrating the possibility of effecting a reduction in these losses.

The history of health affairs in Canada and elsewhere proves that great reduction in the incidence and mortality of such diseases as typhoid fever, diphtheria and consumption have occurred in the last generation or so; typhoid fever and consumption deaths have been more than cut in half; diphtheria has been reduced by 75 per cent the mortality of scarlet fever, smallpox and many other affections has been materially lessened. These facts afford much encouragement to those interested in the prevention of disease and the preservation of the race.

How can further and greater reduction in sickness and mortality be secured?

1. By proper business management of public health affairs.
2. By increased expenditure, for this purpose.
3. By active leadership.
4. By co-operation of the medical profession and
5. By education of the public in health.

Of these measures the spread of education in health is perhaps the most important. The general public, who pays the bills, must be convinced that proposed reforms will pay. Once the public is satisfied that the expenditure of money means better health, longer lives more comfort and happiness they will not hesitate to provide the means. Local, provincial and Dominion governments are needed in the work of education, organization and administration. Better local management of health officers is essential to success. A few cities in Canada have efficient health management, which is reflected in safe water supplies, pure milk and food, satisfactory sewage health housing and adequate protection against communicable diseases. But 99 per cent of Canada's municipalities have no health management worthy the name. This condition prevails because the public is not aware of what real health management means.

The worst health management is to be found in the towns and rural areas in health resorts and lake-side places where the public reasonably expects to find the sanitary conditions above reproach. Many towns and villages have faulty water supplies. These supplies usually from wells are often contaminated and are the source of most of the typhoid fever. The milk supplies of the towns are often dirty and dangerous. There is no supervision of the producing dairies, or of those handling this milk. A recent convalescent from scarlet fever diphtheria or typhoid may be the milkster. The product is produced in a dirty stable from a dirty or diseased animal, transported under the worst of conditions bottled in a filthy dairy and sold in bulk, without the precaution of pasteurization. Is it any wonder that tuberculous septic sore throat and diarrhoea are common in the children of the towns and villages? Without adequate health management these conditions prevail from year to year, swelling the incidence of disease, the rate of mortality and the cost of sickness.

Good local management requires the assistance of local public opinion. It particularly needs the co-operation of the local physicians. Such co-operation cannot be secured (as in 99 per cent of the municipalities) the medical officer of health is a physician practising in competition with his local brethren. Just as soon as the present part-time medical officer of health is replaced by a whole-time competent officer will the latter gain the confidence, help and co-operation of his confreres.

At the moment there are too many health officers, the best health areas are too small and too poor financially to bear the expense of a whole-time competent officer. The remedy for this is in the consolidation of municipalities into larger health units in the form of a county or half a county, the conditions and finances of which would more nearly meet the situation. This will be discussed in a future article.

Everybody is familiar with the old story of how the Chinese were supposed to pay their physician in days gone by—the doctor receiving remuneration only so long as their patients were well.

Whether, in terms of human nature such a system would work out well or whether it seems more likely the poor physicians would suffer by never being paid at all, is a horse of another color. And why spoil a good old story by looking into it too closely?

There is, however, a good deal of sound psychology in the view point that in times of health, one should prepare for or guard against sickness. Only a few days ago Sir William Arbuthnot Lane one of the World's great surgeons told a London representative of the United Press that "preventive medicine will be the supreme human science of this century."

And now the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has some amazing figures to prove that during the twenty years in which the Metropolitan's Welfare Division has functioned the mortality of its industrial policyholders has declined at a rate twice as great as that of the general population. In early childhood, that is at ages 1 to 4 years, the margin in favor of the insured, although considerable, is smaller than at all later age periods. But after age 5, this margin is very striking. At ages 10 to 14, 35 to 44 and 45 to 54 among males and 15 to 19 and 45 to 54 among females the drop in mortality among the insured approximated twice that for the general population. At ages 55 to 64, the "excess" among the insured males was five times that shown for the general population, while among females it was more than 18 times as great. At ages 65 to 74 the insured registered substantial declines, although the death rate actually increased in the general population for each sex.

It is particularly significant that, whereas the mortality of persons after 55 in the general population has either improved very slightly or has actually increased the death rate among the insured has shown constant, substantial declines. It is for this reason that the expectation of life of the insured at the higher ages, is still increasing while that of the general population stays near the earlier level.

Toronto: "The scourge of cancer," being fought and it is in good measure due to the press that it is being fought so successfully! In these words a well-known medical man here endorsed the stand taken by Dr. Joseph Col. Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins University, who maintains that public education is the most potent weapon that the medical fraternity has in its unending battle against this dread destroyer.

"Fear the beginning and not the end of cancer" Dr. Bloodgood advised a capacity audience during his recent address here under the auspices of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council. Penicillin were learning to suspect innocent-looking lumps, moles, gumbos and other blemishes and in this growing suspicion fostered by public education assisted by the press thousands were finding their salvation. They were learning to show these potential cancer-plagues to their doctors, and doctors were learning to subject them to X-ray and microscopic tests calculated to reveal the presence of, or freedom from, cancer in its earliest and easiest-combated stages.

Preventive medicine, calculating to help disease before even the bud stage was reached was making such rapid advances nowadays that it had become necessary to keep the general public constantly posted upon the changing rules of health "and I must congratulate the Canadian Social Hygiene Council" added the speaker "on having here a hall dedicated to that purpose. So far as I know, it is the first of its kind in the world."

Pity the poor Medical Officers of Health. He must bolster up unlimited responsibility with very limited authority. He has to educate his employers while carrying out their instructions, his ukases frequently irk persons of influence and as public opinion is usually made up principally of public in difference, so far as he and his department are concerned he fails to enjoy the active support of those whose lives and health he is protecting.

This is the picture that Dr. Arthur Wilson Medical Officer of Health for Saskatoon, paints of public health conditions in the province of Saskatchewan, in an article in the current issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal, and there are many other parts of Canada to which it applies with equal accuracy.

"In Saskatchewan the Council of a municipality shall be its board of health," he writes "but in cities the council may appoint from amongst its members a committee to act in that capacity. Such a board of health does not always act in the best interest of health of the citizens, and for the following reasons given in detail:

"1. The number of members on a council (in cities the number is 11) is much too large for prompt efficient and uniform action in actual practice and if a committee from the members is chosen it is very difficult to get meetings so much time is taken up with other committee meetings.

"2. The composition of the council changes each year. The old members are just becoming of some assistance and really constructive in their ideas when they must give place to newcomers with their fresh ideas and sometimes destructive criticisms.

"3. The number of members on a council (in cities the number is 11) is much too large for prompt efficient and uniform action in actual practice and if a committee from the members is chosen it is very difficult to get meetings so much time is taken up with other committee meetings.

with health administration. They are also very susceptible to the influence of those who are dissatisfied or those who seek privileges. Permit me to give an instance. Some years ago in a certain city in Saskatchewan the city council ordered a certain house to be placarded as unsanitary because the premises were unclean, dilapidated and lacked sanitary plumbing and were altogether unfit for habitation.

The occupants were notified to vacate. In a few months the owner returned from spending a pleasant winter in California jobbed the aldermen, appeared before the council, and in spite of the fact that no improvement had been made to the property they ordered the placards to be removed and the property as it was. Such irregularities are a detriment to the progress of good government and make a laughing-stock of public health work.

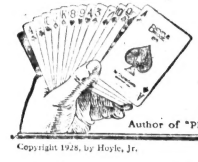

"4. The Council as a board of health frequently orders reports upon useless inspections which, if left to the discretion of the medical officer of health would never be made. The time could be saved for more important work.

"5. Health matters are frequently dominated by the council and given publicity in such a way that it is really a hindrance to health work instead of being an assistance.

"6. The medical officer of health is not a member of the board and has no voice in matters, but must simply carry out the council's instructions as well as the instructions of the provincial department of health, which are sometimes incompatible.

"These are a few of the reasons why a municipal council in our province makes a poor board of health. Aldermen with no training experience or education usurp the powers that should belong to the medical officer. I health are organized in some other fashion, but in no province in Canada is the medical officer of health the responsible official with an advisory committee or board as advised by Winslow.

How to Play
BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1928, by Hodge, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 17

There has been much discussion as to the advisability of bidding four or more of a suit headed by the king without an outside trick. Practically all players agree that such a bid is a losing bid if the bidder is left in to play the hand, but they also agree to go down a trick or so, but even then you doubtless will have saved a game by doing so. On the other hand, suppose you bid one spade, second hand bids two hearts and all pass. Your partner now knows what to lead—and how often that information saves the game!

Hearts—10, 6
Clubs—8, 4, 2
Diamonds—1, 7, 6, 3
Spades—A, 9

If you bid one spade on this hand and are left in to play it, you probably will go down a trick or so, but even then you doubtless will have saved a game by doing so. On the other hand, suppose you bid one spade, second hand bids two hearts and all pass. Your partner now knows what to lead—and how often that information saves the game!

Hearts—10, 6
Clubs—8, 4, 2
Diamonds—1, 7, 6, 3
Spades—A, 9

From a defensive standpoint there is no doubt as to the value of leading top cards, such as ace king suits with four or more, on the opening round. If you pass such a hand, the contract may be too high to justify a bid on the second round.

For example, suppose the dealer passes with the foregoing hand, second hand bids one heart, the dealer's partner passes and the partner of the heart bidder says "three hearts." What can the dealer do then? His hand is too weak to bid three spades, so he is forced to pass and his partner, without the information given by the specific bid, is forced to guess as to the proper lead and is more apt to guess wrong than right.

Don't hesitate to bid a suit containing top cards on the first round of bidding and thus anticipate an adverse declaration that otherwise might puzzle partner as to the proper lead. Such bids are always sound defensive bids and the advantages of bidding them mean that you will never regret making them.

For example, here are two hands where the lead is an important factor:

Hearts—A, 7, 6
Clubs—A, 8, 5, 4
Diamonds—Q, 9, 8, 7, 5
Spades—A, 10, 9, 7, 6, 3

Hearts—A, 7, 6
Clubs—A, 8, 5, 4
Diamonds—Q, 9, 8, 7, 5
Spades—A, 10, 9, 7, 6, 3

No score, rubber game, Z dealt and passed, A bid one diamond, Y passed, B bid one no trump and Z passed, A bid five diamonds and all passed. What is Y's proper opening lead? The only lead that will defeat the bid is the ace of spades, followed by the eight. A will win this trick and lead a diamond which Z will win with the ace. Z will then lead a spade, which Y will trump and thus defeat the bid by one trick. Any other lead by Y with the ace of spades will give A B the game and rubber.

The lead is so very important in Auction, and even more so in Contract, that too much thought cannot be devoted to a study of sound leads. When a positive direction as to the proper lead can be given on the first round, don't hesitate to make the bid even with only four or more to the ace king and no outside tricks.

Here is a tricky hand just submitted by a correspondent:

Diamonds—Q, 8, 7, 6, 3

No score, rubber game, Z dealt and passed, A passed and Y bid one heart, B passed, what should Z bid with the foregoing hand? An analysis of this hand and the holdings of the other three players will be given in the next article.

Here is another query from a correspondent:

is essentially a good paint. It has every qualification a good paint should have; lacks everything deterrent that would cause it to fall short of the best. It is placed in your hands with the assurance that it will meet every requirement you expect of a good paint.There is no particular secret in the making of good paint. The great test factor is the "will" to do so. Too many manufacturers yield to the temptation for greater profit, or to the insistent demand for something cheaper.The manufacturers of BAPCO product have the "will" and the deter-
